"To meet our performance goals—or to stay ahead of the competition—we need to reinvent ourselves. Virtually everything about the way we do business must change."
- Toyota Global Vision

"In our company, IT reported to the CEO, so I'd never had it report to me before. I dealt with it, of course, as a major user, but I never actually approved its spending requests and architecture plans. We probably experienced two years of excess before I could fully separate the necessary from the grandstanding. I wish I had spent three or four days away from the company learning how to oversee IT."
- The CEO of a Large Financial-Services Company
